

THOMAS HEINRICH SCHOLARSHIP

The Thomas Heinrich Scholarship, funded by the Heinrich Family, and the Macromedia University of Applied Sciences, provides support to exceptionally talented undergraduate students and enables them access to international experience.

Thomas Heinrich, a Macromedia University undergraduate student in Media Management with a specialization in Music Management, passed away under violent circumstances in December 2012 at the age of 22 while studying abroad in Dublin. He is remembered as an enthusiastic, caring, broad-minded, vivacious young man with exceptionally strong interpersonal skills.

This scholarship program was created with the shared belief that cross-cultural understanding and cooperation are the foundations of peaceful co-existence. The scholarship will be awarded each year to an undergraduate student (male or female) attending Macromedia University who demonstrates a particularly good knowledge of the local language (English) and substantial community involvement.

The aim is to encourage the student to social involvement with fellow students, faculty and others in the vicinity of the university, in addition to academic work. The student shall serve as a cultural ambassador for his or her homeland while simultaneously gaining a deeper and better understanding of the culture of the host country.

The scholarship of 4,500 Euro will be awarded for study at one of the Macromedia partner universities, and is supposed to cover the cost of travelling, accommodation and tuition fees for the duration of the semester abroad.

1. Prerequisites

- TOEFL-Score of at least 79 points
- A cumulative GPA of at least 2.5
- Outstanding social commitment
- Willingness and motivation to act as an intercultural ambassador between the two universities (e.g. reports from your study-abroad experience, member of the committee for the following year etc.)

2. Application process

Please hand in the following documents together with the application form::

- Letter of Motivation describing the candidate's reasons for selecting the partner university, as well as future professional goals and personal aptitude (maximum of one A4-size page; 12-pt font size; left and right margins at 1.5 cm, in English)
- Letter of Recommendation from a Professor or Lecturer
- Evidence of social engagement or other community involvement
- CV with work or internship experience in English
- Proof of required TOEFL scores

Please submit your signed application to Macromedia Community e.V. at → thomas-heinrich-stipendium@macromedia-community.de

3. Application deadline

Applications are accepted until 15th April 2022. The scholarship is awarded once a year in mid-May and is decided by a committee comprised of representatives of the Heinrich Family and Macromedia University, respectively, as well as a student representative of Macromedia University.

If you have further questions concerning the scholarship, please contact Prof. Dr. Arthur Hofer → a.hofer@macromedia-community.de
